Job Application for Full Stack Developer

To Whom It May Concern,

About Me

---

I am a recent graduate from the University of Toronto's Mathematics and Physics Specialist program. I have 9+ years of experience developing software in an academic setting. I am adept in both functional and object-oriented programming styles, have experience ranging from low-level GPIO-pin programming to high-level web app development and have developed full stack applications using technologies such as PostgreSQL, ElasticSearch, and Amazon Web Services.

Why Konrad Group?

I am looking for a company that values creative and analytical thinking, and Konrad Group fits this description well. I also want somewhere to grow and further my skills, using new and existing technologies to achieve business goals in an agile and elegant manner.

Why Me?

---

The requirements of the full stack application developer align well with my own skill set, as I have developed a full stack web application in the past. My proficiency in JavaScript and the relevant functional programming style used in modern frameworks would be asset to a team I work with. My previous experience with PostgreSQL means I am well equipped to work with SQL and NoSQL databases alike. Finally, I have strong interpersonal skills and am dedicated to improving myself through critical examination.

Sincerely,

Matthew Walker
